PERPETUAL WAR FOR PERPETUAL PEACE!

By ARCHIBALD E. ROBERTS,
Lt. Col., AUS, Ret.

(Committee to Restore the Constitution
Suite 990, Savings Bldg., Ft. Collins, Colo. 80521)

"Perpetual War for Perpetual Peace," an unscrupulous policy of unending U.S. military entanglements, was revealed with stunning impact during the war in Korea when it became known that the United Nations Security Council controlled the action on both sides of the thirty-eighth parallel.

The agony in Korea was the first U.N. "no-win" war instigated to advance the "trade and aid" objectives of an international banking cartel. The real power behind the United Nations is the New York-based Council on Foreign Relations.

The same U.N. charade, a thinly-camouflaged, stage-managed war, is continued in Viet Nam. The deception of U.S. presidential authority is carefully maintained, of course, but the real chain of command leads from the U.N. Security Council, headed by Dr. Leonid N. Kutakov, a Soviet communist, through the Southeast Asia Collective Defense Treaty Organization (SEATO is an U.N. regional arrangement with headquarters in Bangkok, Thailand), to Lt. Gen. Creighton W. Abrams.

"Men find the truth lovable when it shows them the light: It is odious to them when it makes them see their imperfections."

— Saint Augustine

Gen. Abrams' predecessor, General William C. Westmoreland, a member of the powerful Council on Foreign Relations, is now Chief of Staff, Department of the Army.

U.N. Command

U.N. command of U.S. military action in Viet Nam is clearly exposed in the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution which, prior to its rescission, was quoted by administrative spokesmen as the authority for committing millions of young Americans to the Indochina meat-grinder.

Americans will remember White House declarations extracted from Section 2, H.J. Resolution No. 1145; "Consonant with . . . the Charter of the United Nations and in accordance with its obligations under the Southeast Asia Collective Defense Treaty, the United States is, therefore, prepared, as the President determines, to take all necessary steps, including the use of armed force . . ."

No U.S. official, however, has found it convenient to quote from Section 3, Gulf of Tonkin Resolution, which directs:

"This resolution shall expire when the President shall determine that the peace and security of the area is reasonably assured by international conditions created by action of the United Nations."

The key to achieving "trade and aid" objectives of the financial cartel is power — military power to enforce the edicts of those who manipulate U.S. national policy. The transmission belt is the United Nations Organization. Transfer of military power to the Council on Foreign Relations, via the U.N. Security Council, is accomplished in the name of disarmament.

To Disarm U.S.

One-world propagandists and their dupes belabor the expression, "general and total disarmament," as a label for their publicly-announced goal of "international peace and security."

This is, however, a false and misleading label; for the truth is that what is actually proposed by them is a central political authority backed by overwhelming armed force. It is painfully obvious that such an international "peace force" is intended, not to insure peace, but to insure the involvement of Americans and their soldier-sons in interminable "no-win" military adventures — a series of Korea and Viet Nam wars which will create a climate of conflict to justify and support a war-based economy.

These U.N. economic wars also serve to intimidate, to confuse, and to condition the American people, thus leading to public resignation and ultimate acceptance of one-world government (a central political authority) as a "solution" to the world's political ills.

'Tis the times' plague, when madmen lead the blind."

— William Shakespeare

And, finally, such a central political authority can and will employ their U.N. army to crush recalcitrant governments and destroy counter-insurgent (anti-UN) peoples.

For confirmation of the totalitarian concept embodied in the thrust for a United Nations "peace force" we need but recall the U.S.-sponsored Carnegie Endowment plan, "Apartheid and United Nations Collective Measures," which envisaged hurling American soldiers against the government of Rhodesia in a massive blitzkrieg to reduce that country to a submissive state within the United Nations world body.

Implementing legislation to activate a United Nations army, based on the personnel and hardware of U.S. military services, has been placed before the United States Congress in the form of Senate Resolution No. 32 (4), House Resolution No. 130 (5), and other bills of similar intent.

The Constitution is, of course, very specific about the authority to wage war and keep the peace. Nowhere in this contract is there a grant of power which permits the Congress to delegate these responsibilities to any international body.

Nevertheless, the Congress purported to authorize transfer of the United States military establishment to United Nations command by the "Arms Control and Disarmament Act," of September 26, 1961.

These gross violations of constitutional prohibitions will not and can not insure "world peace."

Nor does Viet Nam disengagement offer hope for "international peace and security," as its proponents claim. Reduction of the U.S. military presence in Southeast Asia merely confirms the achievement of "conditions created by action of the United Nations," namely, the establishment of an industrialized complex in Indochina.

The human and natural resources of that unhappy land will now be fed into the production facilities of the world industrial society to further the "trade and aid" objectives of international bankers.

Further campaigns of the United Nations "peace force" are already charted and programmed. Even as the U.S. Army, a remnant group of exploited, embittered, rebellious Americans, is withdrawn from South Viet Nam, a bewildered nation is being conditioned to send its blood and treasure to a new theatre of war, "to defend America against communist aggression," in the Midwest.

The monstrous policy of "Perpetual War for Perpetual Peace" will persist until an aroused and indignant people commit themselves to exposing and neutralizing the financial "elite" who pulls the strings. Only then will the "Day of the Wizard" end and peace reign.
